Use films to get children reading again!

St. James Cavalier Centre For Creativity is offering a film to schools based on the best selling children's book – Arthur and the Minimoy, a story about the true meaning of courage and the endless power of imagination.

The film will be followed by a workshop of practical drama exercises using improvisation - scenarios to explore, status transition and characterisation.

The aim of this workshop is to show children that status doesn't mean power.

The duration of the film is 93 minutes and as there will be no intermission during the film, it is suggested that the children have a small snack before the film begins.

The minimum number of students is 70 and a maximum of 105 (including teachers).

1 teacher per 30 students.
